

Goeff Credo Statement

Faith is not making religious-sounding noises in the daytime. It is asking your inner most self-question at night – and then getting up and going to work.

Mary Jean Irion

My authority is a multitude, such as personal experience, science and intuition. What makes things important or holy is the development of me and a sense of unity with others. When I am off it is not finding unity of mind, body and spirit.

Reaching the pinnacle is a combination of self-actualization and sense of unity with others. Part of this unity is mutual respect and support. My supports are a growth of science and technology, which helps our thinking and gives us the leisure time to pursue our bliss.

The role of our liberal fellowship is deep and wide. We celebrate common values, sense of community and personal growth. Our group helps me with the suffering of an indifferent universe. Our companionship supports me knowing death is simply part of life to be accepted. Our communal wisdom guides me to immortality when I feel and know experience as eternal and transcending.
